The mayor of Sullivan, X. B. Trower, has resigned.

WILLIAM J. HUMBLE, of Moultrie country, an eccentric individual who called himself "the Great-head of Kentucky," and who was well known by most of the residents of the county, died last week, and was buried at Sullivan with distinguished honors on Sunday.

EX-MARSHAL Pittkin of Louisiana, has been interviewed by the Washington correspondent of the New York Herald. He believes that in the next State election there will be a coalition between Conservatives, Nationals, and Republicans against the Democrats. In 1880 the occupation of the baldoson will be gone, as the Conservatives will stand politically at the side of the blacks, and the latter will poll their full vote.

The march of General Sherman "through Georgia" on his present trip has been with somewhat different surroundings from those of his first march. His reception by the people of the South has demonstrated that they have a good deal of sound American sense left. The general once gave Atlanta considerable of a taking down, and yet nowhere was he received more cordially. The good sense and judgment exhibited by the people give evidence that, in time, the truth will break in upon them and they will see that their true interests lie in getting clear of their old prejudices.

No persons in this country turn out of bed earlier in the morning to get the papers and see the result of the cipher investigation in New York than Senator Thurman and Mr. Hendricks. Their only hope is that somebody will "squeal" on Tilden and destroy his chances for nomination by the next Democratic National Convention. If Polton "squealed," those gentlemen would forget their dignity and stand on their heads for joy. But "squealing" is not in the programme. Polton will be a willing sacrifice, and the able railroad-wrecker will assume the role of injured innocence. All this may satisfy a Democratic convention while it is under the influence of a "barl," but it is altogether "too thin" to palm off on the American people.

GOVERNOR CULLON has received a circular announcing that an International Exhibition will be held at Melbourne, Australia, beginning October 1, 1880, and closing March 31, 1881. Special buildings for the exhibition are to be erected in Carlton Gardens, in the city of Melbourne. The circular says: "The fact that Australia has been represented at all the great exhibitions of the world since 1851, and the advance she has made in productive industry, the extent of her commercial relations, and the high position which her imports and exports have attained, indicate that she has now reached the period when she may profitably invite the great manufacturing countries to send the most complete products of their skilled industry to a people who are in a position to become not only good customers but generous competitors." Information upon any question of detail can be obtained upon application to the Agent General for Victoria, 8 Victoria Chambers, Victoria street, Westminster, London, S. W.

New York and San Francisco business men have already expressed their intention of sending articles for exhibition. Chicago manufacturers have already found their way to Australia, and no doubt this city will be well represented at the Exposition. — (Augu-

SUPERIOR ABILITIES.

From the Burlington Hawk-Eye. Now there abideth these things, which every man can do better than anyone else: Poke a fire. Put on his own hat. Edit a newspaper. Tell a story; after the other man has begun it.

Examine a railway time table. Did you never notice that if you open a railroad guide and begin to look for some particular train, that some officious man in the crowd will spring up and lay his great thumb right over the column your train is on, and try to find you the right express is on, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, by roaming up and down column headed "accommodation," in the Illinois Central side of the page? And you can't bluff him off, either. A few days ago, a quiet looking man on the Wabash Railway called the train boy and asked him for a railway guide for a moment. Then he began to examine the columns, and a busy looking man behind him leaned over the seat, and said:

"What train are you looking for? Where do you want to go? I can find it for you if you're not much accustomed to this sort of thing." The stranger thanked him and said he was looking up some of the connections of the Wabash Railway, and he guessed he could find what he wanted.

The busy man immediately took hold of the guide and pulled it away from him.

"You'll never find it looking that way," he said, "now tell me where you want to go; I know nearly all the connections of this road; I travel over this line twice every sixty days."

After a vain effort to get his guide book, the stranger reluctantly yielded, and the busy man looked down the column of "ticket fares" and ascertained that the stranger's train reached Dallas at $4.76, and then he looked down the column of distances and discovered that the connecting train for Vincennes left at 6:58. Then he handed the guide back to the stranger, and leaned back in his seat with the air of a man, a Christian, unselfish man, who had, at some trouble to himself, of course, set a bewildered wayfarer right. The stranger thanked him quietly and with every appearance of profound gratitude.

"Oh," the man said loftily, "that's all right; these railway guides are all Greek to people who ain't accustomed to railroading."

By and bye, the stranger went into the other coach, and the busy man, noticing the respectful demeanor of the brakeman as he passed out, called to the employee and asked:

"Who is that man?"

"Mr. H. C. Townsend," said the brakeman, "the general passenger and ticket agent of this road."

And the "busy man" looked straight out of the car window a long, long time, and every time the train boy went by shouting "Railway guides," he turned pale and shuddered.

Greenback Editorial.

The easiest thing in the world is to write an average Greenback editorial. It doesn't require any sense or argument! All that is needed is assertion and rant. Sling these together with plenty of exclamation and interrogation points, and a liberal use of capital letters, in a style of paragraphs and sentences originated by George Lippard in literature, and introduced by Brick Pomeroy into political writing, and you have the whole thing. We can write Greenback. Just see:

VOX POPULI! VOX DEI!

Ah! Laborers! Freemen! American Citizens!

Last night it was dark, but thank God! the sun will shine to-morrow, and it will soon be New Moon!

Tax-Ridden Tramp, rejoice, for the next step, your foot will be on the neck of the Oppressor!

Are you slaves?

Do you want to be taxed to buy your own coffins when you are dead?

Are you Niggers, and your children Mulattoes?

Aye, Niggers! That's it. Who but Niggers must work thirty hours a day, go to bed without their supper, and have to sleep taxed to enable the Bondholders to live in idleness!

Farmers, where have your immense crops gone to, that you labored and sweat night and day to produce?

Ugh!

Rats!

How long will you submit to having your precious babies die of small-pox while the pampered children clothed in silk and fur enjoy the measles?

Ahore!

Look at your ribs filled with corn; your fat cattle and hogs, and think that you are under the thumb of the Bondholder, who must have these things to live on, and who will force you to take money at par with Gold in exchange for them!

The Remedy is in your own hands.

Demand Flat Money for your Produce. Refuse Gold and Silver, even though the Bondholder's wife and children starve in their gilded palaces.

The voice of the people is the voice of God!

If God made Gold and Silver valuable, the People can make Paper more valuable, because there are more of them than there is of God.

Then arose, and the Year of Jubilee, so long foretold by prophets, will dawn upon you. — They (Kao) Chies.

TELEGRAPHIC

NEPHEW PELTON.

Tries to Explain the Ciphers.

Uncle Knew Nothing About Them.

New York, Feb. 6.—Colonel Pelton was to-day before the Congressional committee engaged in investigating the cipher dispatches.

Question—Can you remember any of the names with whom you corresponded, or have you destroyed your cipher key?

Answer—I have, and I cannot now remember the names of any persons with whom I conferred. All the telegrams sent by Weed were by my instructions addressed to Havemeyer, who at once sent them to me. After this they were presented to the committee at the Everett House.

Question—Who opened these dispatches in your absence?

Answer—The National Democratic Committee.

The Chairman called attention to the dispatch dated Tallahassee, November 16, and signed, in the translation, "Marble." The dispatch stated that the Canvassing Board may and will purge the county return, and that "our first move will be to require the appointment of a board of three State officers, one being an able Democrat, for immediate action."

Colonel Pelton—I might as well state here that I cannot remember anything about these dispatches. There is no question that the Tribune dispatches get near to the point, yet they are inaccurate. I always understood that Wooley and Fox were one and the same person. Give me a little more latitude, and I will testify fully.

The witness did not remember whether or not he used the word "Denmark" as his signature.

Mr. Springer, of the committee, said that several dispatches from Florida signed "Marble," sent by Coyle, in reference to money matters, were explained by the memorandum of the expenses of the Democratic National Committee, submitted by Mayor Cooper.

The witness said that he had an idea that the Returning Board propositions, even if not carried out, would result, if assented to, in a delay which would be favorable to the Democratic party. He had made no arrangements for raising money, but intended eventually to lay the matter before the Democratic National Committee, and let it decide.

In the meanwhile, he thought it best to commit the members of the Returning Board to the propositions in question. He acted wholly on his own responsibility, without consulting with any one. He had no authority to act for the Democratic National Committee in the matter.

The South Carolina dispatches were taken up. Pelton remembered sending one assenting to use $50,000, but didn't remember the terms. Clearly remembered accepting the proposition of Weed to pay the South Carolina Returning Board $75,000. Had no explanation for the other dispatches. Went to Baltimore, but first saw Mr. Cooper and told him about the Weed correspondence, and that witness might need money. Before he met Weed, he was fully satisfied money could be forthcoming, but later received a telegram from Cooper and some man that the money could not be raised. Cooper led me to believe the money could be obtained: Tilden was exceedingly annoyed, and denounced witness' action very severely. He had not the least idea of what was going on with the purpose of buying Returning Boards. Certainly did not tell him of the Weed, Marble or Wooley correspondence. Had no conversations with Tilden on the matter till his arrival from Baltimore. Was not certain Tilden had yet recovered from his amazement. He told witness distinctly he wanted no such work, and would sooner die than allow himself to be put into the Presidency under false pretenses. Went to Baltimore and told him about the Weed correspondence he was still more exercised, and denounced the whole proceeding emphatically.

Mr. Sherman has furnished a full copy of his personal letter to Arthur in respect to the son of Judge Bradley, which was read in executive session of the Senate, and said that in comparatively few cases, and mainly at the instance of gentlemen of great distinction, who might not care to have their request for office put upon public records, he wrote personal letters. He did not think it honorable in Arthur or fair to these gentlemen to disclose such letters, but, so far as he (Sherman) was concerned, he would, under the circumstances, rather have them published. He said that if he heard of any other personal letters of his disclosed by Arthur, he would promptly publish them, and not allow them to be eked out through the cloak of a secret session of the Senate.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, January 18, 1878.—Personal: DEAR SIR.—I inclose a letter from Justice Bradley, of the Supreme Court, strongly recommending his son for a position in the Custom House. The young gentleman will call on you and explain more fully. For manifest reasons I would be very glad to oblige Mr. Bradley, who takes this matter greatly to heart, and I hope you may be able to give his son employment, as he is no doubt highly deserving, and would be a meritorious officer. I leave the matter to you with the sincere hope that you may be able to comply with his request. Very truly, etc.

THE TELEPHONE TEST.

A Successful Experiment with this Wonderful Invention at the I. D. & S. Office Last Evening.

Our Reporter's Interview with Major Miller, of the Tuscola "Review."

Yesterday a combination of Bell & Dolbear's telephone was attached to the I. D. & S. Ry. telegraph wire at the office of the company in this city, and another at the residence of D. H. Fitch, telegraph superintendent of the road at Tuscola, 30 miles distant.

This telephone differs from the Edison invention in this: that the transmitter and receiver are combined—the operator sending and receiving messages through the same instrument; and it is very remarkable what distinctness of tone and accuracy of expression is afforded the human voice in the use of this particular telephone. Every word spoken through the transmitter, every inflection of the voice—in fact, every sound that is made is faithfully transmitted, and the listener removes the receiver from his ear with only exclamations of surprise and wonderment.

The test of last evening was very satisfactory, and afforded much amusement to all who were indeed fortunate in being present.

JOE MURPHY.—To-morrow evening Mr. Murphy, with his fine company, will entertain our people as Dan O'Hara in the "Kerry Gow." Below is what the Boston Post has to say of the entertainment as given at the Howard Atheneum in that city: "One of the prettiest and best of Irish plays, illustrating the every-day life of the whole-souled middle class of the Emerald Isle most charmingly—and at the same time introducing enough of villainy to act as a lively foil to the virtues of the good—is that which Mr. Joseph Murphy is now presenting at this theatre under the title of "Kerry Gow." The play has been here before, and so long as it is acted with the excellence which characterized the presentation of every part last night it will be sure of a hearty welcome in Boston."

Those present at Mr. Fitch's residence in Tuscola, were Col. H. C. Moore, Sup't of the I. D. & S.; Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Fitch; N. A. Eddy, paymaster I. D. & S.; Miss Ella Burden, and Major Asa Miller, editor of the Tuscola Review.

Mr. Eddy engaged in what seemed to be a very pleasant conversation with Col. Moore, when Col. Dodson wanted to know if there was a fire in Tuscola. Being assured that there was not, the jolly fireman lost all interest in the conversation, and gave way to Mrs. Fitch, who favored the Decatur audience with a fine recitation, entitled "Influence." It was faithfully given, not a word being lost, and each in turn heard a stanza of the beautiful poem as it came across the deserted prairie, through the lonely woods, over the silent Sangamon, into the company's office at this end of the instrument—Then Mr. Fitch whistled Yankee Doodle, Grandfather's Clock (we felt like shooting him), and a number of other familiar airs for the entertainment of the REPUBLICAN reporter, and then came the most wonderful part of the whole performance. Miss Ella Burden, at Mr. Fitch's residence, played "Home, Sweet Home," and a variety of other tunes on an organ, which were plainly heard in Decatur, though 30 miles away. Miss Burden's Decatur audience vote her a very accomplished performer, and hope to hear from her again. Some one played on a Jew's harp, and at this point the Tuscola audience wanted to hear what Decatur could do in the way of entertainment.

If we do it ourselves Decatur gave Tuscola as good as she sent; and the first to step before the footlights was Mr. George Lary, who sang "Dreamy Eyes that Haunt Me Still," "How of Killarney," "Baby Mine," (shot him) "Ever of Thee I am Fondly Dreaming," and that he did each song to perfection, was evidenced by cries of Bravo! Bravo! from his audience at Tuscola. Then followed variations on the French harp, by R. W. Ferguson, who received several flattering encores. The ladies had something to say, as a matter of course; but as it was all about the fashions, we will not inflict our lady readers with a reproduction of the comical oration.

THE PHILANTHROPY.—The regular meeting of the Philanthropic debating society takes place at the high school building to-night. The subject for debate is embodied in the following resolution:

Resolved, That America will decay, as did the nations of antiquity.

Miss Lizzie Lukens, principal, on the affirmative side of the question, and Cyrus F. Randolph second. On the negative side, Albert T. Summers, principal, and W. R. Goodwin, second.

An election for Marshal will occur.—Cyrus F. Randolph is the most popular candidate. If elected, as he undoubtedly will be, he will make a very efficient officer—the right man in the right place.

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.—To-night a delegate temperance convention will be held at the tabernacle, for the purpose of nominating candidates to be supported at the March election for the several city offices. There will doubtless be a full attendance of the delegates from the several wards, and to-morrow it will be known who is who, and what is what.
